REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF EDUCATION

For the Year ending March 1, 1887.

The School Board of Newport submit this, their first annual report under the town system of schools:

We find in the town school district twelve school houses. Four of them are quite good, three having modern seats. Six are in fair condition, and two are unfit for school use. Only one, that at North Newport, is insured.

There have been 11 different schools taught in the district the past year, there being 28 terms in all. The School Board has made 66 visits to the schools during the year. We have employed 19 different teachers. Thirteen of them have taught two or more terms before this year, and seven are graduates of the Newport High School. Although they have met with varying success, yet we can say that they have all worked conscientiously for the best good of the schools over which they have been placed. And here it may not be amiss to remind the parents of the aid they may give the teachers in their work by a kind and hearty co-operation with them by seeing that their children are prompt and regular in their attendance, by visiting the schools often during each term, thereby showing the interest, which they feel in one of our most important institutions: for to have a feeling of isolation in the community in which they work must, to say the least, be very disheartening to the teachers.

There has been no serious disturbance in any of our schools in the past year, but harmony and good order have generally prevailed.

There is a great lack of uniformity in text books used in the same as well as in different schools, thus greatly increasing the labor of the teachers, with no good results. There should be no new books purchased for use in the schools without the consent of the School Board, so that the confusion may not be increased. In most of the schools there are no globes, suitable maps or dictionaries, all of which are essential for the best school work.

Physiology and hygiene with special reference to the effects of alcoholic stimulants and narcotics upon the human system has been taught in all of our schools, either in classes or by reading to the pupils by the teacher. No one will doubt the wisdom of the law requiring this study in our schools, and if it is faithfully carried out we have the assurance that those who are now growing up will not be left in ignorance concerning these matters.

By the courtesy of the Board of Education of Union District we are able, in this connection, to give the statistics of the schools over which they so efficiently preside.
